Deborah W. Miller is a sole practitioner, focusing her practice in the areas of estate planning, retirement benefits planning, probate administration, estate and gift taxation, trust administration, and charitable planning.

Debbie earned her Bachelor of Science degree at Cornell University and her Juris Doctor at Southwestern University School of Law. Debbie is a member of the Scottsdale Bar Association, and the State Bar of Arizona, Probate and Trust Law Section. She is also a member of the Paradise Valley Estate Planning Group, Valley Estate Planners, and Scottsdale Estate Planners. Debbie's charitable commitments include: serving as a Director and member of the Executive Committee of Habitat for Humanity Central Arizona; serving as a member of the Board of Directors of the Jewish Community Foundation and as past-chair and member of its Professional Advisory Committee; and acting as a mentor to several non-profit organizations through participation in the Arizona Endowment Building Institute, which is a program of the Arizona Community Foundation. Debbie is a speaker on estate planning and planned giving for non-profit groups in the Valley and also serves as a faculty member for continuing legal education courses in estate planning for retirement benefits, probate and trust law, and federal estate and gift taxes.

Debbie was born in Buffalo, New York and moved to Arizona in 1983. Prior to private practice, Debbie worked as a trust officer for Citibank (Arizona) and as a trust officer and trust counsel for Firststar Metropolitan Trust Company, which is now part of U.S. Bancorp. Debbie is married, has two daughters and two Labrador retrievers, and is an avid runner.
